

TRESTLE

James Vanderberg Awarded Trestle Visiting Artist Residency

Trestle, a non-profit contemporary art space in Gowanus, Brooklyn, has awarded LOOC artist James Vanderberg its Visiting Artist Residency from January to June 2016.

James Vanderberg
Exterior Gate, 2015
24" x 18"
Oil on canvas

Trestle's Visiting Artist Residency allows artists to explore their practice and share their artistic experience with the Trestle community. Each cycle, one established artist receives free studio membership at Brooklyn Art Space for six months. As the Visiting Resident Artist, Vanderberg will lead one art talk and one critique or workshop.

Trestle shows 8-12 exhibitions each year and also provides figure drawing sessions, art talks, critiques, screenings, performance art events, technique-focused art classes, professional development opportunities, and two studio space residencies: the Brooklyn Art Space/Trestle Residency, and the Visiting Artist Residency.